Now in James Monroe

Between Rubic cubes, Pac Man Fever, Brooke Shield's Calvin Klein jeans, and Chicken McNuggets, 1981-1982 was as fast-paced as the adventures of Indiana Jones in "Raiders of the Lost Ark."

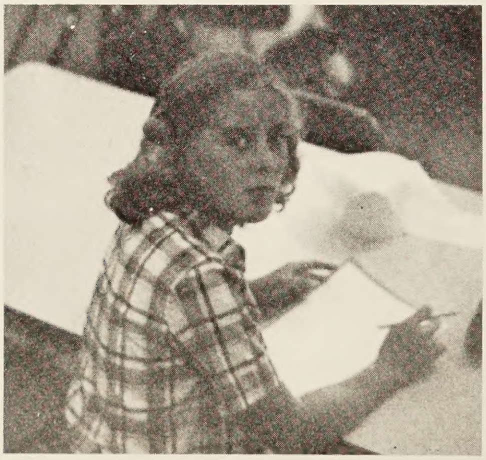
1981-1982 was a year of romance. From the music of Endless Love, one of the top songs of the year which Kathy Schlacter and Robert Colter sang at the Christmas assembly, to the delivery of Valentine carnations by the National Honor Society, James Monroe High School students got into the mood of the nation. It was the summer of the Royal Wedding of Shy Lady Di and Prince Charles; it was the fall of the marriage of Luke and Laura on "General Hospital." The hot new man on T.V. was Magnum, P.I. Romantic ruffles were "IN" for spring.

Last year it was "Who shot J.R.?"; this year it was "Whose body was it in the pool?" in Dallas. Prime time soaps became rampant with "Dynasty," "Flamingo Road," and "Falcon Crest." Adventure and gossipy intrigue was the name of the game.

Joanie and Chachi move to their own show; Laverne and Shirley move to California; and James Monroe seniors "moved" to Florida for their senior trip, with no worries over the PATCO strike, but with the memories of the fatal crash of the Florida-bound plane which crashed on the 14th Street Bridge. It was the year of the Space-Shuttle Columbia's third flight and Elizabeth Taylor's eighth divorce. The news of Wolf Trap burning down spread as fast as the California fruit fly.

The women were on the top this year. Sandra Day O'Connor became the first female Supreme Court Justice. At J.M. Girls' sports such as Hockey, Tennis, and gymnastics were tops. Cincinnati in the Super Bowl battled San Francisco, and the J.M. team felt for Cincinnati.

James Monroe's face got a lift, hopefully, with better construction than the one that caused the MGM Grand Hotel in Las Vegas to collapse. Students walked halls with no ceilings, saw rooms with no windows, and passed "watch out for falling bricks" signs and welding while waiting for the unfinished business to come to an end.



JUNIORS Marie Brown and Stephanie Holmes select their class rings.
JOAN ESTES and Craig Edwards prepare an art project.
SUSIE MATSON sketches a still life in art class.

Dead Bugs, Cookie Monsters, and Double Dutch Bus Munchkins

JUNIOR VARSITY hockey players have to act like "dead bugs" whenever or wherever a varsity hockey player yells, "Dead Bug!"

For every home game in the 1981-1982, the various teams received the yells and encouragement of a Pep Rally. The Freshmen were "Hot;" the Sophomores "Had Their Own Kind of Spirit;" the Juniors "Have More Class;" Seniors "Did It Better."

Cheerleaders began preparing for the Friday pep rally at the beginning of the week; their ideas were taken from a special cheerleading camp the girls attended during the summer at University of Richmond. Other ideas were kicked around until everyone liked one; Mrs. Wronowiecz, one of the sponsors, helped with the brainstorming.

When there is something to be done, cheerleaders spontaneously practice after school, and there is a mandatory practice every Wednesday from 6:30 until 9:00 p.m. — or until the work gets done.

The results were the pie in the face for Dr. Comerford, a S.T.R.I.P.E.S. march, yelling contests, Gong Show, munchkins riding in a Double Dutch Bus, and raising spirit for the teams. For the students, it was hard to sit in a shortened sixth period and wait for the Pep Rally.

SENIOR GIRLS, Patti Needham, Colleen McBane, Susan Smith, Robyn Ramer, Elizabeth Poole, Kristi Simmons, Dianne Chapman, Susie Matson, and Lisa Wells, send a message to North Stafford, and the Wolverines listen.

THE DOUBLE BEL BUS

THE VARSITY CHEERLEADERS do a routine to "Double Dutch Bus."

IN A YELLING CONTEST all the classes had sponsors who took giant steps toward a pie pan full of whip cream. Dr. Comerford, representing the senior class, was the "winner."

JUNIOR VARSITY cheerleaders, Lindsay Thompson and Jeryl Rose, get the Freshman class "fired up."

Yorktown Day

On October 15, 1981 Students got a half-day vacation and the school was vacated at 12:30. It was the 200th anniversary of the battle of Yorktown and over 2,000 participants had followed the route from Ridgebury, Connecticut; Princeton New Jersey; Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Annapolis, Maryland to Fredericksburg. The route of Rochanbeau was followed as closely as possible. The Revolutionary War battle was really a "skirmish" in Fredericksburg, but the legion put on a reenactment of the battle for the townspeople and the students of the Fredericksburg City Schools.

Students enjoyed French and American dancing and French food downtown from 12:00-2:00 p.m., and the Rochambeau-Washington Marching Unit began its march from City Hall, up Caroline to Old Mill Park for a reinactment of the attack on Yorktown. The James Monroe Marching Band joined the parade.

MARIA SLABODA, Mike Soden, and Valerie Rosbach enjoy a half day off from school on a beautiful autumn Wednesday to see the parade.

Pre-Homecoming Activities

The warm up for the Homecoming Game consisted of the parade, which started downtown in front of Sammy T's and wandered up Caroline through the city to the baseball field. The boy scouts sponsored the fire and the students warmed up to the blaze for an outdoor pep rally.

On Friday, school let out 20 minutes early for another outdoor pep rally in front of the school. The cheerleaders and the football players dressed up to destroy the wily "FOXES." The Jackets fulfilled their promise with a victory at Homecoming.

Prepping for Varsity Football

Preparation for a game meant physical and mental readiness. The physical effort showed on the dirty and well used practice uniforms of the Varsity Football team.

After a day of classes that stimulated the mind, the team went to another school. They watched films — a break from exercises and scrimmages — to prepare tactically for games. The school did have its failures: the studying done, the team thought it was ready to pass the real test and win the game on Friday night, but the season began to look bleak. The coach gave orders and the preparation became even more rigorous. Sweat poured out of the contorted bodies of the players as they pulled muscles and pulled tires to test their strength. The win against Louisa was the reward.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS get in a three point stance to practice their hiking.

G.T. LEWIS, Joe Brown, Ronald Newell, and Philip King rest on the floor before watching films in 125 to improve their football techniques. Percell Ellis, Rodney Catlett, James Comerford, Don Hicks, Phillip Ridderhof, and Chris Lindsay watch the resting players.

Something Exciting Is Always in the Air

Varsity Girls' Basketball coach, Cathy Bauer, summed up the season for the team as follows:

"Overall our season was a winning one in spite of our 6-10 record. We had a lot of very talented athletes on the team, and we enjoyed ourselves throughout the season. We are looking forward to a rewarding season next year with many returning players."

The team had six games in which they lost by less than four points, so fans felt that the team tried up to the very last minute for a win. The two senior members on the team, Val Rosbach and Frankie Wheeler, also felt that the team had much "potential" for the 1982 season; losing two of the best players from the 1980 season hurt the girls this year.

The team did have some exciting games. The Jackets won the game against Courtland at their home court; the Courtland team was the "most improved team" of the season. The team also upset Orange.

The most difficult game was against Caroline, said Senior Val Rosbach. It was an away game with the Caroline girls being very aggressive on the boards. The Jackets managed to send the game into overtime, where they lost by one point. The King George games were also challenging; the girls found their tactics hard to adjust to.

The girls practiced every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday for two to two and a half hours; on game days the girls practiced for an hour and a half, plus being in the gym from 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m playing the game or watching the Jayvee team play. During the away trips, the girls spent about fourteen hours a week playing. The girls learned to budget their time and not let it interfere with their school work.

The girls played because they enjoyed basketball and because they enjoyed being part of a team.

I Play the Songs

James Monroe students could participate in three bands: the marching band, the stage band, and the concert band. Mr. Ron Jordan, band director, has students marching and practicing at 7:30 during football season. The early birds greeted the students coming to school with their music; the Alma Mater sounded better and better as the season grew to an end.

The Marching Band tried to raise money for another trip in the spring to match last year's trip to Georgia. Band boosters sold tickets to raffle off $50 at the football games. Parents helped out selling programs and concessions.

A Choice of Colleges

Not only the students from James Monroe High School and from the surrounding county schools, but also parents, teachers, and faculty got involved in college night which was held at James Monroe High School Thursday, October 29, 1981, beginning at 7:30. The faculty put in much preparation and hard work, setting up tables, chairs, and signs, making sure each representative had everything he needed, and answering any questions that anyone might have once it began. Tables for representatives were placed both in the gym and in the cafeteria. Students, trying to get information from colleges, rushed from table to table to only wait in lines. Finally, there was time to stop and take a look at the pile of booklets, pamphlets, and applications that were acquired. Friends gathered together and talked over the different colleges. Slowly, person by person the school began to get empty until all those who were left were the faculty to put more hard work into cleaning up.

Classy

What is it the old adage says? "These are the best years of your life." These may be the best years of your life, but they are also the most difficult and fast-paced ones.

From first period to sixth period a student is constantly on the go.

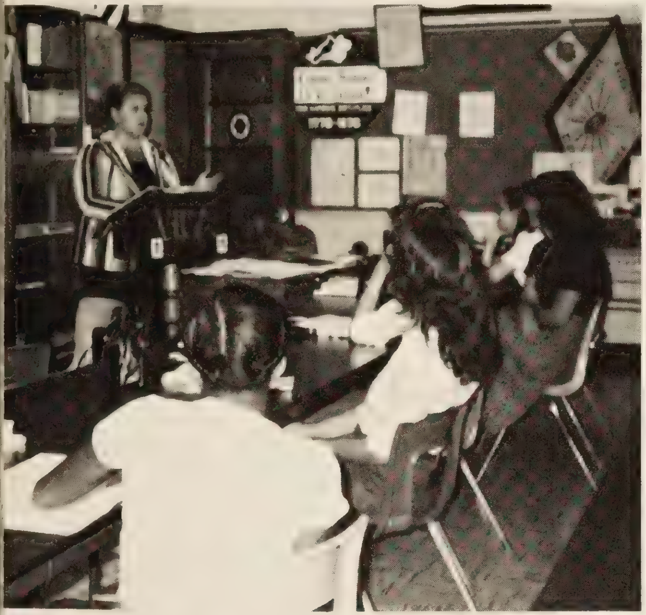
Reading, writing, and arithmetic are still the basics, but today Biology, Art, D.E. and Stenography are part of some of the students' active daily life in the new learning process!

The students in Miss Sais' Advanced English 12 class are in the final year of their high school education. They have gone through the basics and are now looking forward to the new challenges that are ahead of them.

MRS. GLOVER'S biology students look at microscopic animals.

MRS. STONE lectures to her D.E. class.

NANCY DAWSON, Patrina Scott, and Traci Mercer do the assigned work in Stenography II.



MISS SAIS' Advanced English 12 class reads THE LIVELY ART OF WRITING.

BARBARA WASHINGTON gets ready for Mrs. Hansen's class.

MR. JOHNSON, during Advanced Art, talks to Frankie Wheeler.

Goodies and Gifts

MS. HAYOOD, Ms. Grosbekc, Mr. Burch and Ms. Hanson enjoy a meal from the Nook.

Cooking and sewing are two of the many skills taught in the vocational department. Food Services cooks lunch for the teachers on Tuesdays and Thursdays in The Nook. They also bake goodies to order. This class, taught by Mrs. Wroniewicz, gave students a chance to use their cooking skills and gain experience in serving food.

Home Economics taught sewing as well as many useful skills for running a household. Such things as macrame and cross stitch often appear in the display case outside the Home Ec room.

ELLEN O'BRIEN serves Mr. Nichols his lunch.

ROBERT COLTER prepares pizza for the Nook.

IN THE NOOK, Stephanie Johnson and Ann Barner cut up carrots.

STEPHANIE BURGESS concentrates on her macrameing.

PATRICIA BROWN works on preparing a meal for the Nook.

LINDA PARKER works on her macrame project.

HENRY WASHINGTON macrames in Home Economics class.

I Remember When . . .

I remember when M.E., K.B., and A.B. rode high during lunchtime.

I remember when M.S. finally took my advice and moved on to bigger and better things, and when the "Franchise" was 0-11 from the floor.

I remember when K.S. and I out canoed everyone but died on the M.O.V. E. adventure. V.C. was locked in the supply shed, we made hair spray torches and all the great hockey and tennis trips.

I remember when the Key Club float broke six rules and still won third place.

I remember when Magic got to play in his very first Varsity Boy's Basketball for Jayem . . . 10 seconds before the game ended last year at Stafford!! We were very proud of him.

I remember when M.E. and K.B. used to go out to lunch.

I remember when I used to walk down the halls with R.M. and I was the happiest girl in J.M.

CHARLES McDANIELS plays games at the Fredericksburg Fair.

KIRSTEN RILEY and Lynne Burton talk about the hot day.

I remember when C.D. talked to a banana.

I remember when Piggy, Pluck, Ab, Jim, and Tootie used to go to lunch after morning exams and were always late to the afternoon exams.

I remember when I used to go to my clerk typing class on Mondays and discuss the weekend happenings with Marie, Tammy, and Mrs. Robinson. Pam Whiteside and Kristi Simmons almost got killed for yelling, "Hi, MOM, I'm home". (Just because we were in the wrong house.) It rained on our parade Homecoming 80-81.

I remember when I first came to James Monroe and after the first week I was ready to leave!

I remember when "Short Cakes" wore her birthday suit to a certain party of the opposite sex.

I remember when the basketball team had a get together at J.A.'s house and V.R. and F.W. started to feel the groove.

I remember when they were tearing the school apart and we all ran around with our big heavy coats, and we still froze our butts off.

I remember when M.R.V. made a certain delicacy out of a brown rug at a certain party.

I remember when Golfball had long hair.

I remember when I took my first Burch test . . . two days after I came out of schock.

I remember when Lil' Buck caught 4 passes in 4 years and finally decided that tight end was not for him, when D. H. said, "What do you want me to do with it? Hold it?", when J.C. and Sube were chauffered by T.C. up to Wintergreen, when J.H. took a trip to the Capital Center with a bag full of tricks.

I remember when I voted for yours and you voted for mine it was Mrs. Gobel's class, we passed around the grade book in Mrs. Banks class — everybody had A's, Chre Chapman, Mr. Scaife's extra-curricular writing courses after school, the hockey team was nearly hit by the criminal runaways racing down the highway.

I remember when a very special girl, had a very special talent . . . ruf ruf!!, after the bash at J.C.'s house and the Kool-Aid Refreshment, C.T. and R.R. were two very confused girls.

W.K., J.C., C.M., and B.M. went to C.D. house for a get together, How were we to know the fish didn't like to drink; poor things! W.K. got caught with a "crick" in his neck in chemistry, others may think differently, but I know he is an honest, hard-working guy! E.P., D.C., C.T., A.B., and S.L. ridiculously tried to lose "Big Blue", I guess the fire extinguisher and eggs put out their flames.

I remember when J.M. and M.S. were in Pizza Hut and were entertained by the eating candle, J.M. and K.S. took a hike up the hill at B.P. and ended up on their faces, K.S., J.M., M.R., M.S., S.J., and T.W. had a complete "turn-around" in their lives, K.S. and M.R. were in J.M.'s car when a certain individual walked by with his dog.

I remember when we were the first kindergartens at Hugh Mercer.

I remember when I came to James Monroe. That was a big year for me.

I remember when B.R. took G.W. and I to the office for biting her ham sandwich.

I remember when D.C. alias Daisy hung out the window barking while coming from Liz Stelle's party, when D.C. wanted to buy a pair of bent racing poles at half price, when the hockey bus was covered with shaving cream at Culpeper, when all the hockey players were scared to death after their little incident on halloween, when A.H.B. was at the Kool and the Gang concert and slept through it, when Mrs. Cralle had on all J.G. Hook clothes on, and all of Mrs. Cralle's so-called easy tests.

I remember when I spent the entire night in the emergency room with V.R. to find out she wasn't really sick, when M.V. was so desperate for female companionship that he went out with a lovely tree and gave her a goodnight kiss, and when S.G., V.M., R.W., and C.D. were supposed to go to the movies and every one was in the dark.

I remember when Mr. Hall adjourned fifth period government on the basis that they were "in a state" leading to riot and possible anarchy, when Elizabeth Poole bought carnations for everyone at the Silver Slipper.

I remember when trying to sneak in late after a homeroom meeting, Dr. Comerford chased Paula, Marie, and I all the way upstairs yelling "Come back girls, you're going to the office!"

RONNIE FELIX, Ricky Mann, and Philip Ridderhof ride the Homecoming float.

DON HICKS discusses Light in August.

I remember when D.C. got together with C.D. at L.R.'s party, and T.M. had it out with D.C. after he returned many hours later. I wonder what D.C. and C.D. had been doing? M.E. and M.J. had it out in clerk typing II and M.J. was about to get whipped.

I remember when Mrs. Hansen slapped Ben Campbell, when Mr. Sudduth disapproved of the fly races, when Mr. Hall broke the desk while thinking about greasy steak sandwichs, when there was a water fight on the Girl Scout trip to Holden Beach, when Mrs. Ascari decided to throw the Spanish party out the window, when, at the Spring Dance, S.D. enjoyed her dinner even after dinner was over, when L.S., K.S., and S.M. stopped for a rest on 495, returning to find their car a mile down the road.

I remember when I spent 5 minutes in a gym locker.

I remember when B.S. and F.W. hugged porcelain and F.W.'s mom blamed it on me: when V.R. shot from half-court and sunk a swisher: and learning of the truth of creation with C.R. and J.W.

I remember when our own personal gang of girls and guys used to get into those terrible conversations during the last 10 minutes of government class.

I remember when the Class of '82 were considered seniors and not underclassmen, when Tommy "Belmans" P. greeted me with a joke in the bleechers at Maury School when I first arrived from D.C.

I remember when a clown got a little red nosed and started dancing with the crepe paper and a punk rocker, when a "Thor-Chip" was the issue of the day, when Death and the Latin six became the preoccupation of certain knowledgeable individuals.

I remember when A.B. threw a ball of dough at C.T. during food service class.

I remember when it was my sixteenth birthday and I had 8 people in my car at the same time!

I remember when some guys followed the hockey bus for at least 30 miles because of a certain #1, when I spent the night at the car wash because E.P. locked the keys in the truck, when the night of the big chase was.

I remember when L.P. ran out of health because there was blood shown on the film, when C.M. was dancing with S.H. on the golf course at Sheraton, or was it James Monroe parking lot? when the Silver Slipper was the main hang out, when L.S. and S.S. made their annual carmel apples, when S.S. and L.S. were saved from falling off a cliff by G.S. in Europe, when R.R. kissed a frog and made him a prince, and Buddy!

I remember when the 3 Musketters decided to visit Colonial Beach at 4 am with only ten dollars in pennies to their names, when 1 Musketeer got a pretend ticket for violating a pretend speed limit, when two-thirds of the 3 Musketeers took an unusual canoe ride across the parking lot at the Mall.

I remember when the hockey team was undefeated and was Battlefield champs, M.S. asked me out for the first time, when A.V.F. "burnt" S.F.G.'s clutch out, when I taught Andra how to drive a stick shift, when I went skiing with M.C.S., for the first time, when A.V.F. washed the inside of my car.

I remember when I first met Red at G.W.'s house.

I remember when a bunch of girls went to Holden's Beach, North Carolina in the summer after seventh grade and couldn't go to the Pavillion one night before we got a ride back to the cottage with a guy who, "Stepped on a Cactus Plant."

I remember when S.G. took up weight lifting and then proceeded to rip my bathroom door off its hinges, When S.G. and C.M. decided to partake in a high speed chase through the "Burg", the most memorable things is the many wonderful days spent with the one that I love, K.J.R.

I remember the great times we had throughout the year.

I remember when I went flying up a one way street 70 miles per hour because I thought I was late getting back to school.

I remember when James Monroe was a high school.

I, Tammie Armstead, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my knowledge and looks to Tammy Williams, a girl who has already accomplished my first name, and the success in life that I'll accomplish to David. Good luck in the future to the both of you.

I, Lois Jeannine Bishop, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my ability to my sister, Vicky Louise, to work up to her potential and not to cut classes. I leave this school, JMHS, with a big grin.

I, Lorrie Bland, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to little sister, Leslie, my parking place, if she has a car; all my books, all my teachers, my spot in the office, a pair of speed skates, a Trans-Am, all my jeans when they fit, all the luck she can get, and a hug from me. To George H. I leave the memories of DE and a squeezed knee. To Mom and Dad—all my love and thanks.

I, Thesesa Boutchyard, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave Susie McDaniel all the good times we've had together with those CB's and the guy of your dreams (Ha Ha, remember); to my sister, all the happiness in the world and the patience to make it through high school. And, of course, the keys to the car, to Nancy, all the memories of our friendship and the days of "I think" and "I know." To Becky, all the good times and some eggs—remember, and to Greg, the humbleness to say "Hello!"

SENIORS'

Last Will and Testament

I, Angie Boxley, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave JMHS with a smile on my face. I leave to my youngest brother, Gary, my ability to graduate and I also hope that he keeps his good looks and all the young ladies. I leave to my other brother, Remus, all the fun I had at JMHS and the ability to argue and—or reason with the teachers; I also leave him my parking space(s) (smile). I leave to my cousin, Lloyd, love and happiness with that special lady, and also that he be the number one man in Basketball the year 1982-1983. I'll miss you.

I, Marie Braxton, hope that all of you still in school do good and have a good time but try to stay out of trouble.

I, Angela L. Brown, do hereby leave my sister Lisa all my notes and boyfriends. And I leave C.J. a hug and a smile and Frank all my love. And I leave Jayem with a big bang.

I, Helene Bundy, do hereby leave my love of leadership to Novella Jackson; my spirit to Mona Grant; my business abilities to Tammy Williams; my ability to be on time to Cassie Woodward; pencils, pens, paper and sisterly care to Darryl Coleman; someone to talk to in study hall to Clarence Caokley and Raye Thompson; a bomb to drop to Mona Frye; all the success in the future years at J.M. to Trina Bundy and La Ponda Bundy, and all of my trust and care to Lloyd Watts and may he achieve all his goals and happiness in his future.

I, Devena Byrd, being of sound mind and almost sound body, do hereby leave to A.G. the walls in the lobby to hold up; to Pops, the best of luck in life; to D.C., the wisdom to seek and find what he really wants in life; to MR, enough common sense to stay out of trouble and Pizza Hut; to Little N.D., all the "Little" joys in life; to Gic, the best of Luck at VA Tech and the N.B.A.; to Que, Poochie, and Jew, some earplugs! and last to J.B. and L.W. the best that life has to offer because they deserve it.

I, Ben Campbell of partially sound mind and body, do hereby leave . . . to Don Hicks "A ticket to ride" (in the wildcat) to Scott Shelton a mug with a hole in it, and Big Bad Burly B.B., a minute piece of security.

I, Robert Carmichael, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Colleen and Steffy some great times we have had and the memories of a terrific New Year's Day.

SENIORS wait for the Pep Rally to begin.

To Dianne I leave my wizzardry with math and the hope that in College she can find someone to help her. To Edmund Rowe I give my charm, grace, style, and good looks with the hope that someday he will learn how to use them. To Robert I leave Bobo, Bebe, and Mr. Willie White. To Malinda I leave the good times, the bad times, and the hope that the good times will always continue. To Kelly I leave great memories of great times, all my love.

I, Cheryl D. Carter, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my brother Doug my ability to "cope" at J.M.; to Ms. Carr I leave one high B flat; to Covell Thompson one coupon for a free "Big Mac"; to Julian Bumbrey and Lloyd Watts I leave two dimes; to my "bestest" friend, "Big D," I leave the memories of good and bad times we had together, a BIG kiss, and happiness in the future; and finally to Gary Richardson, I leave my ability to handls his love life, and three words I don't have to say.

I, Shelwyn Comford, being of sound mind and body, leave my knowledge of women to Percell Ellis so that he may one day become great. I leave my brains and extra credits to Raymond Minor so that he might graduate on time and I leave my courage to Ronnie Fortune.

I, Scott Crist, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Terry Sutherland the finer "slabs" from neighboring Courtland and Stafford High Schools. To my sister and brother, I leave all my outstanding study habits and an academic reputation which is to be carried on for years to come. To the pseudo-intellectuals, I leave best wishes in pursuing a diploma at J.M.

I, Sara Durcan, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave Fredericksburg! TO Mary Ashton Roberts, al my French notes and good times; to Merri Glover, one kimono and a free pass to the teacher's lounge; to Ted Byrd, New Year's Eve; to Mr. Carter, all my chemistry equipment forever; to Colleen a bunch of hilarious memories and constant munchies; to Tom Baker, all my English tests and college address.

I, Ed Darmon, leave all my ability to "Make some noise" to my little brothers: Joe Joe Mercer, Julian Bumbrey, Joe Fleming, and Johnnie Walker. Also, to my favorite, Mrs. Wrono, happy cake decorating.

I, Nancy Dawson, of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to my little sister, Becky, a comb, mirror, all my old tests, and the courage to stand up to 13-11-13. To Christine, I leave my leotards, three free lessons, and a can of shaving cream. To Kristi and Greg, all the luck and happiness in the world. To Valerie, all the cookies, hot peppers, and ice cream she can eat. To Missie, the choice to buy her own shirts for Christmas, and six pair of Calvins. I leave to Sheresa all the great memories of our friendship, all the endless bruises from ice skating, and the days of I think, you know, and no go! And lastly to Lance M., all the luck in everything he does, a surprise, and all the great memories.

I, James B. Dykes IV, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to my sister Darlene all my government notes and to T.I. 30; to P.M. an application to Hampden-Sydney; and to Mark a Courtland cheerleader, Meyer's and a Hampden Sydney sweat shirt.

I Myrna Ellis, being of Sound Mind and body, do hereby leave my brother Paul my ability to make good grades; my sister Talitha my ability to attract the guys; my friend Angie my ability to fool around with the guys; my friend Edith my ability to love without pain; my friend Sheila my ability to graduate; and my friend Stephanie my ability to get by in life.

I, Andra Fischer, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Patti "Yoda" Needham my friendship for life, my bad temper, and the great times we've had in the past four years. To Steffy "Skippy" Gibson, some Highlife, Tab, a Big Teddy Bear and lots of luck with M.S. To Colleen "Sandy" McBane, I leave a ton of sand, a cold shower, burned skin and pizza from Uno's, drink and all.

I, Mona Frye, being of sound mind and body, do leave Novella Jackson my good skills in Pom Pons and my position as Captain. I leave Remus Boxley my parking space that I never used because I never drove, but I give it to you. I leave to Monique Hall all the fun I had and all the guys I didn't have. I leave Lloyd Watts my love and happiness.

I, Steffy Gibson, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Colleen McBane, a date with P.L or Big Jim (your choice), another New Year's at Robert's house, 1 chicken (CAC), and all the great times we had our junior year; to Theresa Boutchyard, the days of our 9th grade summer, and the railroad tracks and a yellow Volkswagen, to Frankie Wheeler, a list of all my problems to solve and a visit to the river with "C" and "J"; to Andra Fischer, a date with the "Big T," my skill with the stick shift, a private driveway to turn around in, and the fun of being seniors; to Robert Carmichael 1 bathroom door, (hinges and all) and a six pack of faygo, and to Mark Surles, I leave 1 free ski trip and 1 good party, 1 egg or maybe a dozen (I can be persuaded) all the patience life takes, a fun senior year, lots of luck, my address and phone number, so many good memories of the times we shared together, and all of my love. It sure was worth it!

I, Dave Gray, being of ataraxic mind and self-destructive body, do leave the following articles upon my departure from materialism: to Andy: my Kawasaki and an acre of mud off Landsdowne Road to ride it in; to Jim: 10 reps with 200 pounds on my York bench; to Mike: my Conn 8 8H and a chair at All-Virginia Band to play it in; to Dr. Comerford: a Nobel Prize with his name on it; to 2/3 of the Musketeers: my pool talbe and the skill to play without losing your shirts; to everyone else: as we rocket through life on our way to oblivion, we must realize that if God had wanted us to soar like eagles, he would have made our bones as hollow as our heads. Life is the game in which there are no winners, and, in the long run, the ultimate reality of life is death.

MR. HALL'S Advanced Government Class considers the bill that is on the floor.

I, Robert Hancock, being of sound mind and body (almost), do hereby leave to Danny Philips, fond memories of great times and the lyrics to all the Styx songs I know. To Mike Myers, luck with all the chicks. To Kristi Hastings, my art ability . . . so she can do her own art assignments. "A PRINTER AT HAND IS WORTH TWO ACROSS TOWN."

Old Ben, our country's most famous printer, would love Big Red Q. For good reasons.

He liked to save money. He liked to save time. And he liked a good print job. All of which you get at Big Red Q.

Come in and let us prove we're the place for letter heads, envelopes, forms, price lists — whatever your printing needs. Some we can do while you wait. And we do it all well.
